5. Impact & Results

Zoom-In Film Festival brought together approximately 100 participants and spectators at Cinematograful Europa in Bucharest, offering high school students passionate about filmmaking the opportunity to present their creations on the big screen in a professional environment. The event gathered students from several high schools in Bucharest and Braşov, contributing to the development of a community of young people interested in cinema and media production, while also fostering confidence, collaboration, and artistic expression.

The festival featured five student short films, evaluated both by a jury of film industry professionals and through audience voting. The programme also introduced participants to professionally produced short films and offered opportunities to engage with industry professionals, creating an educational and inspiring environment for young filmmakers.

The project's impact was reflected in both direct participation and online visibility, with the festival website recording over 2,130 unique visitors. The event was supported by important sponsors and media partners and mobilised significant pro bono resources (screening venue, equipment, and media services), demonstrating the volunteers' ability to build meaningful partnerships.

Alongside its educational and cultural dimension, the festival also had a charitable component. Participation fees generated 631 RON, which will be directed to Arhitectură. Restaurare. Arheologie (ARA) through the Adoptă o Casă la Roşia Montană programme.
